LONDON | WEDNESDAY 30TH AND THURSDAY 31ST MAY 2018

- Pricing concepts and the financial impact of pricing on the firm
- Pricing strategies and tactics
- Implementation: Pricing the client and documenting the arrangement
- Pricing case studies
- Implementation – embedding a pricing culture

COURSE LEADER:

Nigel Haddon – Burcher Jennings

BURCHER / JENNINGS

LEGAL PRICING & COSTS CONSULTANTS

With more than eight years as the Managing Partner and CEO of regional law firm SAS Daniels LLP, Nigel comes to the role at Burcher Jennings with the kind of career context that makes him both invaluable and unique in his ability to understand the needs of his clients. In total, Nigel has 30+ years as a practicing solicitor - at five different law firms - and led SAS Daniels through four successful mergers and acquisitions, so his understanding of the pertinent issues runs deep.

One of the ways in which those who have worked with Nigel have identified him as unique is the insight he has into both the position of a lawyer working as a lawyer, and a lawyer working as a manager, as well as the skills that are required to balance the two. He is one of the few professionals able to practically assist legal businesses to achieve transformational change.

“It was a thought provoking workshop and has provided me with momentum to review the way we deal with our pricing. The firm is undergoing a lot of change, which is in accordance with our strategic thinking and plan, and I would put pricing in the top 3 things we need to consider.”
